SINCE 1989

Reorganization of our 2021/22 collections

Our collections are taking on a new look in 2021. As innovation is our hallmark, we have made our products even more ergonomic, paying special attention to the sensitive spots on a horse's head. To do this, we collected a maximum amount of information with one and only one goal: to make our products even more comfortable, notably thanks to our new S-shaped headpiece.

Our collections are being reorganised to be more consistent and complementary. For example, the D and New English collections have been harmonised to form "mirror-image" collections to enable everyone to find their favourite products in the respective styles of these two beacon collections.

Our working collection, Working by Dy'on, has been augmented and diversified to delight the greatest number of riders in each discipline.

Other collections have taken a more minimalist direction to stick to essentials, whilst new products have joined our catalogue in order to ensure diversity and quality.

Dy'on is adapting to changes in the horse world, especially developments on breeding farms. Our horses are changing. Today they are lighter, more sensitive, and more reactive, all of which affects our ways of doing things and our sport.

We hope that you will see your equipment not just as accessories, but as major advantages in your daily life.

DY'ON TURNED 30 IN 2020!

THE FOUNDER: PHILIPPE DION

Philippe Dion was born in Belgium in 1964. In 1989, the not yet 25-year-old rider and farrier had limited means and thus decided to make his first pair of full chaps himself with the help of his seamstress aunt.

His chaps caught everyone's eye, in stables and at competitions alike. He made a pair a week the first year, then a pair a day the second year. He finally opened his first workshop in 1990. Dy'on was born.

In 1994 Philippe set himself a new challenge and branched out into bridgework. A high-performance line of textiles completed the various bridgework collections in 2010.

Always on the lookout for innovation and performance and unwilling to accept any compromises in quality, he defines himself as an artisan.

DY'ON'S VALUES

QUALITY

All the materials used are the best on the market. Our leather is sourced in Europe and expertly tanned. We check and inspect each hide before sending it to our workshops. We bank on durability to ensure our customers' satisfaction.

INNOVATION & PERFORMANCE

Our customers and partner riders and their grooms are an unending source of inspiration for us. Changes in horses' athletic performance, in the art of riding, and in the technical demands made on tack are at the heart of Dy'on innovation. Our products are constantly evolving for enhanced comfort and to enable each horse to give its best.

BEAUTY

Philippe Dion has been creating, designing, and making his products with total respect for the DNA of the noble art of riding for the past thirty years. The Dy'on touch has enriched these values by adding ergonomics and performance to outstanding beauty and craftsmanship.

WELL-BEING

As Dy'on sees it, a happy horse makes for a happy rider. Philippe Dion has been convinced from the start that respecting and understanding one's mount are the foundations of a healthy, harmonious relationship. All our products are designed in this spirit.

SERVICE

Dy'on is recognised in horsey circles for the special attention it pays to its customers worldwide. All Dy'on products are guaranteed against manufacturing flaws, imperfections, and abnormal wear of the raw materials.

MINERAL-TANNED LEATHER

FOR CHAPS

Mineral-tanned leather is produced by a mineral tanning bath that neutralises the bacteria in the hide chemically in order to produce strong, highly-durable leather.

This tanning is done in Germany with a pH-neutral chromium bath. The tannery uses a tanning process that is as environmentally friendly as possible and has one of the most efficient wastewater treatment plants in Europe.

We define the thickness, suppleness, grain, and finish of the leather.

It is dyed mainly with natural pigments and vegetable dyes.

This tanning method enables the leather to withstand all weather conditions, which guarantees its outstanding physical properties as long as possible.

VEGETABLE-TANNED LEATHER

FOR THE PREMIUM COLLECTION BRIDLES

The Dy'on leather is produced by vegetable tanning. Our partner tannery, located in Igualada, has been specialised in this technique for four generations. It has an efficient wastewater treatment plant that the city also uses for its own wastewater.

We have minimised the addition of accelerants. As a result, tanning Dy'on vegetable-tanned leather can take up to ten times more time than conventional tanning. The length of this tanning process yields dense, compact fibres that guarantee the robustness of our products over time.

We dye the leather with top-of-the-line natural pigments.

The hides come from a local waste recovery process.

Careful! This vegetable-tanned leather must be nourished once or twice a year to maintain its appearance and physical properties: beauty and resistance.

All these upstream efforts are what enables us to guarantee our leather. Respect for the environment and work well done have been the founding principles of our values for the past thirty years.

The new S-shaped headpiece

The latest Dy'on innovation on the rack.

Dy'on has always striven to share the benefits of its experience through avant-guard products whilst up holding the values dear to our hearts, namely, comfort, effectiveness, and elegance.

This new S-shaped headpiece is an improvement on the model that you already know. The difference? The S shape has been accentuated and the browband sits lower down on the headpiece so as not to hug the base of the ear – one of the sensitive spots on your horse's head.

Accentuating the S shape also makes it possible to espouse the contour of the base of the ear without exerting pressure on it.

Breeding goals and equestrian sports have changed considerably in recent years. Our horses are suppler, lighter, more agile, more reactive, and more sensitive. We owed it to ourselves to adapt our products to these changes.

HOW SHOULD YOU CARE FOR THE LEATHER OF YOUR BRIDLES?

Did you know that the lifespan of a bridle or double-bridle can be increased incommensurably if you care for it correctly?

The leather parts of your bridle should be wiped down daily with a slightly damp sponge and saddle soap, if possible,.

You must clean all the visible and invisible parts of the leather. For that, you can take your bridle apart or move the various components to clean the spots that are usually hidden. This is a safety precaution, for dry leather will crack and tear.

Grease your bridle once or twice a year by brushing on neats-foot oil and removing the excess with a paper towel. This last step is very important! Too much oil will soften the leather and make it considerably less resistant.

If you are extra-meticulous, you can also revive the colour of your brass buckles by cleaning them with copper cleaner – a product that you'll find in supermarkets or hardware shops. Once the shine is restored, apply a coat of transparent nail polish to protect the buckle.

HOW SHOULD YOU CARE FOR THE LEATHER OF YOUR CHAPS?

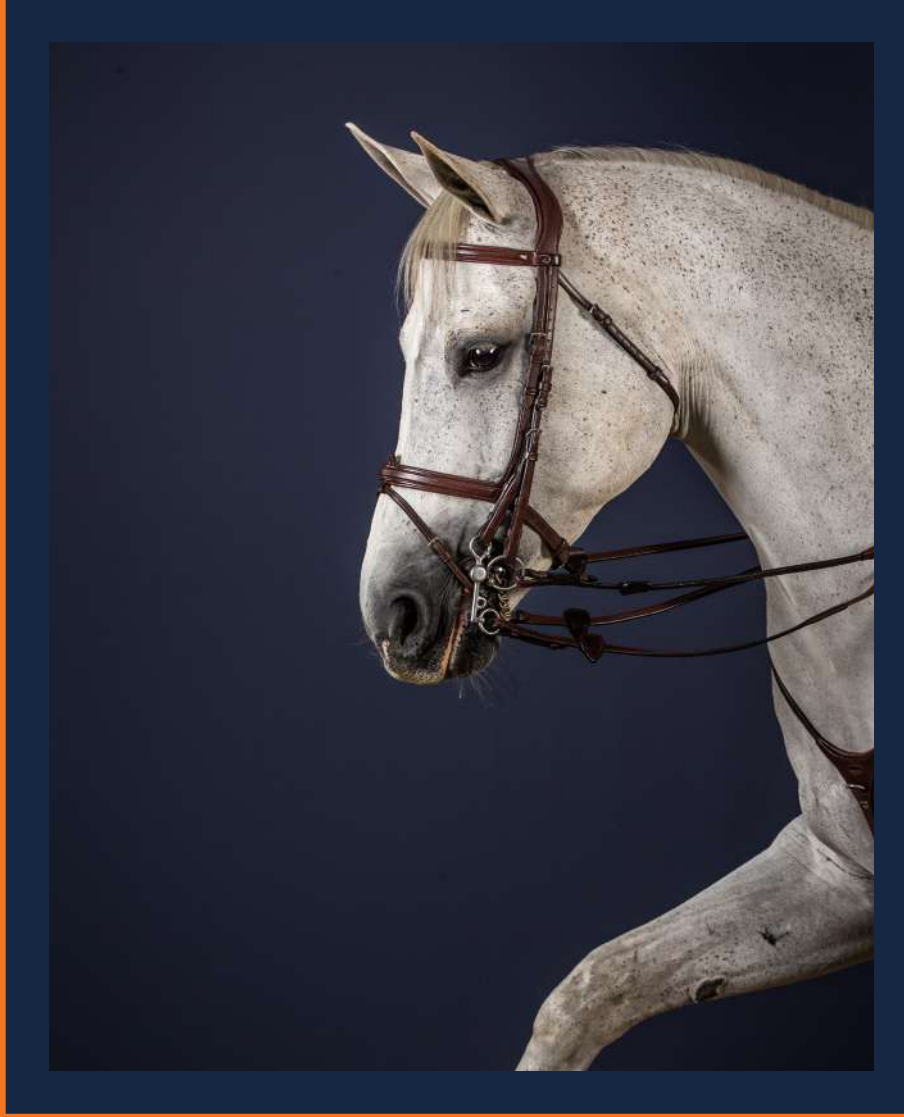

Taking care of the leather of your chaps preserves all the physical properties of the leather to ensure comfort, suppleness, protection, safety, beauty, and longevity.

Clean your chaps each time after use by rubbing them gently with a rag and clean water (to remove dust and hairs) followed by saddle soap applied with a barely damp sponge.

Clean your chaps thoroughly once or twice a year: Brush them with a soft brush dipped in warm water to remove all dust and soap build-up on the leather and in the seams. Then let the legs dry in the shade in a dark room. (Avoid sunlight and heat sources.)

Once the chaps are dry, use Dy'on balm with the sponge provided for this purpose to make them look like new and revive their colour. You can also polish them with an appropriately coloured or colourless wax.

Warning: NEVER GREASE your chaps, as the leather will become too soft.

The Premium Collection stands out for the beauty and fine finishing of its leather.

It consists of 5 de luxe collections with different types of finish to meet everyone's different needs, namely, the D Collection, New English, Dressage, Hunter, and Icelandic.

Everything in each collection is interchangeable. That enables you to create your own bridle by selecting the accessories of your choice. Almost all the components of a given collection can thus be combined. That offers you a vast range of options.

The D and New English Collections are particularly complete. They include bridles, reins, breastplates, and a large assortment of accessories and nosebands.

The Premium Collections are made of Dy'on leather. This leather is produced by a vegetable tanning process developed by Philippe Dion and our partner tannery. This tannery is in Spain and has specialised in this technique for four generations. The vegetable tanning is as close as one can get to a lengthier traditional tanning process. It is more costly but yields incomparable quality.

Dy'on leather becomes more beautiful with passing time if it is cared for appropriately.

The items in the Premium collections are covered by lifetime warranties on all manufacturing and raw material defects.

BASIC COLLECTIONS

The Basic category comprises two collections: Working by Dy'on and La Cense by Dy'on.

The Working by Dy'on collection focuses on the basics, offering classic models for each sport (jumping, dressage, and leisure riding), whereas the La Cense by Dy'on collection, created with the Haras de La Cense* stud farm, caters to horsepeople keen on ethological riding.

The leather used in our Basic Collections is buffalo leather produced by vegetable tanning in one of the best tanneries of Kanpur, India. Water buffalo hide is thicker and has a more pronounced grain than cow hide. The leather is less finely finished but just as solid as cow leather.

Using this leather gives our Basic Collections an excellent price/quality ratio and the resulting items have a 1-year warranty on manufacturing and raw material defects.

The Basic Collections include all the essentials at a lower cost whilst guaranteeing Dy'on quality.

NEW ENGLISH

PREMIUM COLLECTION

This collection is identical to the D Collection, with the exception of an item or two. It offers the same features and technical properties. The main difference lies in its aesthetic sobriety, with stainless steel buckles and stitching in shade that match the leather. Like the D Collection, it is made entirely of Dy'on leather.

The New English Collection is popular with very-high-level riders. It is designed for those who aim for more discretion whilst combining quality and comfort.

Each model in the New English collection comes with the S-shaped headpiece – the latest product of Dy'on innovation.

Whilst it was developed for show jumping, the New English Collection can also be used in all other equestrian disciplines and fits the morphologies of many breeds.

DRESSAGE COLLECTIONS

PREMIUM COLLECTION

A dressage line was added to our collection some ten years ago.

Five years after creating it, Philippe Dion had the immense privilege of making over the collection with Morgan Barbançon Mestre and Helen Langehanenberg (the world's top dressage rider at the time). These two renowned professional riders shared with Philippe their dreams of the ideal dressage bridle for high-level competitions.

All of the linings are made of sheep leather, which is more supple and softer than cow leather.

Given that beauty scores high amongst the criteria for choosing dressage bridles, the dressage collection offers a large selection of finishes, from matte to patent leather, with white piping and linings in between. To top this off, we also have ten models of browbands adorned with authentic Swarovski crystals.

DRESSAGE ROUND LEATHER

PREMIUM COLLECTION

Already convinced of its great beauty, have you ever wondered what makes rolled leather so particular? Well, rolled leather is sewn by hand. It is the product of 100% manual handiwork.

To produce a piece of rolled leather, you start with a strip of flat leather that is then notched to fold it into a circular shape more easily.

The two edges of the leather are sewn together by hand and the seam is embedded in the leather for beauty and to make the result more robust. In this way, the stitches will be protected from wear and remain invisible. Once the two edges are sewn, the piece of leather is softened and shaped until it is perfectly round. It will then be sanded, stained again, and buffed to near-perfection, giving that fine, elegant look for which the items in the collection are known.

ICELANDIC

PREMIUM COLLECTION

Dy'on's Icelandic Collection is for professional and amateur riders of Icelandic horses.

Always looking for new challenges, Philippe Dion joined forces with Geraldine Vandevenne, a bridle fitter, and Mette Mannseth, a famous breeder of Icelandic horses, to develop special bridles to fit these small horses' heads, which depart completely from the usual European standards.

If you love Icelandic horses, the Icelandic Collection is just what you and your horses have been waiting for.

Give them increased comfort and they'll pay you back double for it each and every day.

WORKING BY DY'ON

BASIC COLLECTION

Working by Dy'on is our entry-line collection. It is composed of our most popular products.

As its name indicates, this collection is designed mainly for daily work. It consists of a varied set of models to meet the needs of riders in every category: jumping, dressage, hacking, and trail riding.

The items in this collection are made of buffalo leather for sturdiness and strength. This robust leather with its more pronounced grain can be recognised by its more rustic finish.

The line is functional, combining Dy'on quality and lower cost. Working by Dy'on products are covered by a 1-year warranty on manufacturing and raw material defects.

Designed with working and young horses in mind, this collection should be preferred for home use and regular training.

LA CENSE BY DY'ON

BASIC COLLECTION

The La Cense Method gives everyone the means to communicate with horses. The Dy'on bridle, for its part, creates an intimate link between horse and rider.

Their common goal is to forge ties between two living beings. Working together was thus self-evident.

After months of work guided by excellence, this meeting of minds has given rise to a new range of exceptional products: La Cense by Dy'on.

La Cense by Dy'on defends a special relationship with the horse that respects its well-being whilst proposing beautiful, effective equipment that combines comfort with allowing advanced technique.
